The Century Theatre is the largest item in the museum collections of Leicestershire County Council. Built between 1948 and 1952 in Hinckley, the Century was used as a travelling theatre, boasting links to many famous actors, playwrights and authors. Today the theatre still offers a unique historic home for the arts for the people of Leicestershire.

For full details of events at the Century Theatre this spring pick up a programme from any of these locations; Ashby or Swadlincote TIC, Ashby, Coalville or Measham Library, Hermitage FM, Snibston Discovery Museum, Donington le Heath Manor House or download a copy from www.CenturyTheatre.co.uk
